Formally Open New Link On Ben Franklin Highway At Hillsville On Friday

Ceremonies Take Place On Highway; Also Include
Banquet Later

BOTH PROGRAMS
MOST SUCCESSFUL

Another main highway was opened through Lawrence County on Friday, December 16, another long time plan came to complete fruition and the last gap of a transcontinental highway closed when the Benjamin Franklin highway was opened between Edenburg and the Ohio state line.

The formal opening took place at 3:30 p. m. on the bridge near St. Lawrence church, Hillsville, the dinner took place at 6:30 in the Castleton Hotel. Both events were well attended and each was a success.

Afternoon Program
The afternoon program opened with John B. Shaw, county superintendent in charge as general chairman. He presented Rev. Fr. N. Fidull pastor of St. Lawrence church who pronounced the invocation. Music was presented by the Bessener high school band with Prof. Joseph Martin directing.

H. W. Pindley, secretary and treasurer of the County Construction Company of Carnegie, Pa., the builders of the highway turned it over to the highway department for the use of the motoring public. Said he "we have taken pride in building

PA NEW OBSERVES

Christmas shoppers have been out in force this week, but the big rush starts today and will reach its climax on next Friday and Saturday, when the eleventh hour shoppers will be mashing each other's toes in their efforts to get to the buying counters. However some folks always like to be in the push.

Opening of a section of the Ben Franklin highway at Hillsville recalls that in the first month of the new year we will celebrate the birthday of that illustrious American for whom the highway has been named. Franklin might be called the father of thrift in this country. Many a man has owed his success to the sayings in Poor Richard's almanac.

One of the sayings of this great philosopher which has seldom appeared in print is this: "Nothing preaches better than the ant—and she says nothing." Give it a thought.

It is said that the nation's students, young and old, now number thirty-three million, with a million instructors. The building equipment totals a quarter billion dollar investment. The average salary paid city teachers throughout the country is $1,818, and country teachers, $827.

Around one hundred and seventy-five WPA workers are now employed on paper mill project on the Neshaunock creek, where the stone being quarried at a nearby hillside. An island above the paper mill bridge is to be removed. This work is to be done with a steam shovel which is expected to be on the job next week.

Pa News heard a woman say today that she didn't mind licking a postage stamp, or even two or three stamps, but when it comes to licking a whole cargo of stamps for Christmas cards, she gets tired of the taste.

Highway route 422 between this city and Butler, which is to be widened between the Dixie Inn on the Perry Highway and Portersville, is also to be widened just on this side of Butler. Bids will be opened on (Continued On Page Two)

Hopkins To Succeed Roper?

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE DANIEL ROPER AND WIFE

Here is the latest picture of U. S. Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, second old-line Democrat to announce his resignation from President Roosevelt's cabinet since the November election when the Democrats suffered several defeats at the polls. Roper's resignation is effective two days before Christmas. The picture shows Roper and his wife as they attended ground-breaking ceremonies in Washington for the Thomas Jefferson memorial. Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins is expected to succeed Roper.

Yule Mail Crowd Jams Post Office

Holiday Rush On Today;
Keep Windows Open Until 6 Tonight

The traditional pre-Christmas mailing rush crowded the lobby of the post office today. The day's volume, officials predicted, would probably equal the mailing record of a year ago today.

While long waiting lines formed at the stamp, parcel post and money order windows, Postmaster Richard A. Steen reported that "the heavy business is being handled well." He said only regular substitutes have been added so far, for the demands haven't required calling outside extras.

Friday's mailing business was "very good, too," according to the postmaster.

Two extra parcel post trucks were in service today. They were making deliveries to local addresses as speedily as possible.

The stamp and parcel post windows of the office tonight will be kept open until 6 to accommodate the crowd, Postmaster Steen said. However, the money order division windows closed at 12:30, the usual hour.

Those taking part in the exhibit were from the following clubs: Lawrence County Garden club, East Side Garden club, Mahoningtown Garden club, Mahoning Valley Garden club, Men's Garden club, East Brook Garden club, Harbor Garden club, and the Oakwood Junior Garden club.

The display is open all day today, and will again be open on Monday and Tuesday to the public. The Garden Center is located in the basement of the library building. Purpose of the display is to give the public an idea for novel Christmas decorations.

One of the finest displays seen in this district for some time is located in the Garden Center of the local public library. The display arranged by the garden clubs of the county contains all types of Christmas decorations.

Dr. P. J. Brice Is Taken By Death

Heart Ailment Is Cause Of Death—Located In City
In 1907

Following an illness of but a month, Dr. P. J. Brice, 62, of 36 North Jefferson street, died at 11:45 a. m. today in the New Castle hospital. A heart ailment was the cause of death.

Dr. Brice was well known in the city, respected by his fellow practitioners, and held in esteem by those to whom he ministered. He had been located in New Castle since 1907, coming here to serve his internship in the old Shenango Valley hospital. Upon the completion of his internship he located in New Castle and had practiced here since.

Dr. Brice was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Brice, of Freehold, Luzerne county, where he was born. After attending the Freehold and Oneida public schools he attended Kutztown State Normal School and received his medical education in Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. Since coming to New Castle he had been a member of St. Mary's church.

He is survived by three brothers, Neal and James of New Castle, and Charles of Philadelphia, two sisters, Rose of New Castle, and Mrs. Peter Maloy of Philadelphia, eleven nephews and eight nieces. His wife preceded him in death in 1925.

Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church Tuesday morning, December 20.

Dr. Hutchins Quits Post As Governor In Stock Exchange
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Robert M. Hutchins, president, Chicago University, today handed in his resignation as a public governor of the N. Y. stock exchange, a post to which he was appointed only September 28, last.

Dr. Hutchins' resignation took Wall street by surprise and came as direct result of the decision of the stock exchange governing committee to consider the Richard Whitney case a closed book.

Dr. Hutchins is understood to have been the only dissenting voice to the exchange's decision.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 17.—Efforts of the United States to bind 21 nations of the Americas in a pact of "solidarity" neared success today.

All delegations to the Pan-American conference in Lima openly favor such an agreement. It was understood, and all that remains is to decide on the form the declaration is to take.

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

Lima, Peru, Dec. 17.—With one major goal accomplished through adoption of a project for intensifying inter-American economic cooperation, the United States delegation to the eighth Pan American conference today turned its attention to obtaining agreement on a proposed declaration for moral cooperation of the 21 nations against outside aggression.

Work on the declaration, generally conceded to be the most important objective of the entire conference, was hastened because today is the last day on which resolutions and projected accords can be filed without the requirement of a two-thirds vote of approval by the committee considering each particular proposal.

Hope For Compromise
Hope for a successful compromise between the United States and Argentine attitudes on the declaration which is to take the form of a pledge of "solidarity and conscience" was strengthened by the success of the American economic resolution, adopted unanimously by the conference's first plenary session.

Adoption of the economic resolution, which applies concretely to the American nations the principle of world-wide reduction of tariff barriers to free trade, was seen as a personal triumph for Secretary of State Cordell Hull, outstanding advocate of commercial freedom as a basis of political unity.

Dr. Eodoro Ruiz Moreno, head of the Argentine delegation, reflected the general enthusiasm about the resolution when he said: "It is evident that important commercial projects under consideration will lead to better business throughout."

(International News Service)
LEBANON, O., Dec. 17.—Two men and two women, arraigned on charges of kidnaping an Ohio highway patrolman and robbery, today were under sentences of 5 to 30 years on the first charge and 10 to 25 years on the second.

Those sentenced by Judge Charles B. Dechant of the Warren common pleas court were: Coy Russell, Houston, Tex., and David I. Cross, of Hamilton, Pa., who were taken immediately to Ohio penitentiary, Columbus, to begin serving their sentences which Judge Dechant said must run consecutively; and the women, Marie Day, Greenport, Ky., and Naomi Hayes, Ashland, Ky., who were taken to the women's reformatory at Marysville, where their sentences will be served concurrently.

The four were arrested after Patrolman Parker Powell was abducted as he investigated an automobile accident in which they figured.

Buyers Throng City As Christmas Nears

EW CASTLE took on all appearance of a convention city today as the Christmas buyers thronged the city, and in reality a convention was in progress, a convention of Santa Claus' helpers, who are getting ready for the day which is dearest in the hearts of the kiddies.

The various Santa Clauses in the different stores here will have a headache before the evening is over trying to remember all the things that the kiddies have told them to bring them a week hence. They are right now the most popular people in New Castle.

With only a week remaining, the Christmas buying fever took a big jump upwards today, and judging from the crowds which were on the streets and in the stores during the day, a record throng should be in town this evening, as the first night the stores are open is being observed.

Local merchants were well prepared for the influx of buyers with plenty of extra clerks to handle the rush, and a good supply of dependable merchandise.

The business district has been beautifully decorated for the Christmas season, and many of these coming into the business district for the first time during the evening, will get their first glimpse of the splendid arrangement.

It begins to look as if it is going to be a Merry Christmas in New Castle and vicinity as people are buying quite a bit in preparation for the event.

GARNER SILENT ON

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Vice-President John Nance Garner, presidential timber for 1940 despite his 70 years—36 of them spent in congress and the vice-presidency—returned to the capital again today; his beloved fishing pole regrettably relinquished in favor of a new year of legislative laboring.

Hale and hearty, the silver-haired Texan, famous ten-gallon sombrero in his hand, swung down from his train at Union station early this morning and told newspapermen he had come back two weeks before congress convenes "to talk to the boss."

The "boss," of course, is President Roosevelt. Garner reportedly has differed privately with the "boss" on many matters, but publicly the vice-president's support has always been Mr. Roosevelt's—"I enlisted for the duration," as Garner puts it.

Garner's return to Washington dispelled frequent rumors that he (Continued On Page Two)

Violence Occurs At Plant Gates In Meadville, Pa.

(International News Service)
MEADVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—Violence flared at the gates of the American Viscose company plant in Meadville today as city and county police broke up a picket line which shouted demands for a closed shop and refused admittance to non-union employees going to work at 6 a. m.

Robert Decker, district organizer for the Textile Workers Organizing Committee, said:
"The picket line we had here this morning is the opening gun in a drive for a closed shop that will carry over all six plants of the American Viscose Corporation in Pennsylvania and West Virginia."

The attack on the United States was the second semi-official criticism in two days of American objectives at the Latin American conference in Lima.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The boldest swindler of the decade lay silent in death today but the entanglements into which he lead a prosaic wholesale drug firm threatened to spread even to the walls of congress.

Nothing died with F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson & Robbins, except a colossal masquerade when he shot himself through the head in his expensive Fairfield, Conn., home.

The most gigantic fraud of the age—a Marx Brothers fantasy of the financial world—still lives on.

How Exposure Began
Exposure of that fraud began as a mere suspicion in the mind of Julian Thompson, treasurer of McKesson & Robbins—which incidentally has no member of the McKesson or Robbins family connected with it at present—that there was something wrong in the crude drug department of the firm.

Followed a petition to the federal court in Connecticut which focused attention on the department under (Continued On Page Two)

Fire Destroys Home On Farm

The large two story house of Scott Davidson, located between Mr. Jackson and Govett's Station, was completely destroyed by fire early this morning.

Express Messenger Dies In Tragedy

Loses Grip On Side Of Train

Forced Out Of Baggage Car Because Of Fire Inside Coach

SECOND MAN IS ABLE TO HANG ON

(International News Service)
CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—The dramatic tale of how one man clung to the outside of a Baltimore & Ohio railroad flyer and watched his companion hurtle to his death when they became trapped by flames in a baggage car, was slowly unfolded by the survivor today.

Express messenger E. D. Owens, 45, of New York City, unable to retain his grip on the side of an old-type wooden car, where he and his assistant, Martin Egan, of Connellsville, crawled after fire spread from an exploded oil lamp, fell to his death as the train speeded between Connellsville and Dawson. The engineer unaware of the tragedy occurring behind him.

Hung To Ladder
Egan, who boarded the train at McKeesport, just outside of Pittsburgh, hung grimly to the rungs of the ladder, while hungry flames licked at his body, barely escaping with his life at the end of an 11-minute, 50-mile-an-hour rush through the night.

"Near Dawson" related Egan, who stumbled by himself to the state hospital at Connellsville after other trainmen finally saw the flames and pulled the emergency cord, "the lamp in a wall bracket exploded and right away we had the fire. We tried to put it out, but it was no use. We pulled the emergency cord, but it didn't work."

"So Owens and I opened the door and got on the ladder. My hands were burning but I kept my grip. I guess we went about six miles before Owens couldn't stand it anymore. Near Broad Ford I saw him let go and he fell away."

Hospital authorities said they thought Egan would recover from his burns.

FORMALLY OPEN

this highway. We have done an honest, conscientious job and we have appreciated the opportunity of doing it."

For the state highway department Joseph E. Burke, district engineer of Pittsburgh accepted the highway. Said Mr. Burke, "we also are proud of this highway, proud of the men who designed it and proud of the company that so ably laid it. The completion of this piece of highway marks the completion of the Benjamin Franklin highway through Lawrence-County and there is no better link in this transcontinental highway than the one here. In behalf of the department of highway I accept this road for the use of the motoring public."

Judge W. Walter Braham
Judge Braham spoke for the citizens of the county. He compared the present fine highway with the trails that once led through the forest, back in the days when an Indian village was located not far from the spot where the dedication was taking place. He commended the state and county officials for their co-operation to the end that the highway was made possible.

George H. Burnette, assistant chief engineer of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad was introduced but made no speech. John H. Williamson, president of the Benjamin Franklin Highway Association of Findlay, O., was introduced but confined himself to a few brief remarks. The dedication was pronounced by Rev. A. A. Swanson, pastor of the Edenburg-Hillsville Methodist Episcopal churches. As he finished, five year old Rachel Cracraft of Hillsville snipped the white ribbon barrier and the road was open. The Bessemer high school band concluded the program with the "Star Spangled Banner." In all there were between 400 and 500 people present, despite the chill of the day.

Evening Program

John B. Shaw was the general chairman of the dinner program in the Castleton Hotel and before introducing the toastmaster, bespoke his pleasure at the number present. The ballroom of the hotel was filled to the walls. Attorney Clarence A. Patterson was introduced as the toastmaster and officiated well. The invocation was by Rev. A. A. Swanson.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath welcomed the guests and Floyd L. Cotton, president of the board of county commissioners spoke for himself and his colleagues. He cited some figures to show that the county had expended in the past nine years, $374,414.07 more than had been received from the state as gasoline tax.

Hon. George T. Weingartner, former state senator was the next speaker and reviewed the history of the good roads movement in the state and in the county. As a member of the state senate he voted for the first highway bill presented by Senator W. C. Sprull in 1911. Since then he has had a part in the development of highways in this county almost continuously. He paid tribute to such good roads advocates who have gone, as David Jameson and Hiram G. Miller and to such men yet living as Fred L. Rentz, Frank Hoyt, Louis G. Genkinger, Charles H. Young and B. N. Hanlon who were interested in the Benjamin Franklin highway since the inception of the idea and in the other highways of the county.

State Senator William J. Eroe, Jr., commended the co-operation of the county commissioners in working with the state highway officials in getting the road completed.

Louis G. Genkinger spoke for the New Castle Motor Club and reviewed the constant work of the club in pushing the work of getting the highway completed. It was the New Castle Motor Club that took the matter of the grade crossing elimination at Edenburg to the Public Service Commission.

John H. Williamson
The president and founder of the Benjamin Franklin Highway Association, John H. Williamson, the man who first visioned the highway was given an ovation as he arose to speak. He said in part—

"I cannot remember all the men I have met in the years that are past in my traveling through New Castle but this is to say that I am very grateful for the friendship of Fred Rentz and the wonderful support that he has given us through his newspaper. A newspaper is the voice of the people and it was Calvin Coolidge who said, 'That its one issue much greater than a thousand speeches.' I shall never forget the kindness of Senator Weingartner, Bernard Hanlon, perhaps there are others that I should mention but memory fails me at this hour. Over in the little city of Findlay, Ohio, is a club known as the Enterprise Club. I was in the real estate business but more than that I visioned in my soul the growth of this great city, the pride of my heart, my birth. We visioned transportation and saw this mighty change from strips of steel to highway and just as the railroads had missed us east and west highways were missing us, then it was that we conceived the idea of this artery of traffic as you now see it in the Benjamin-Franklin Highway. At the time it was the Wm. Penn. Highway, sometime in February 1926, we met in the city of Butler, Pennsylvania, and changed the name to the Benjamin Franklin as a memorial to that great inventor, philosopher and statesman. Time will not permit me to speak of all the drawbacks of all the heartaches in the promotion of this great highway but the greatest of all the drawbacks was the completion of this stretch, this elevation of this achievement, we are holding now. Let me pay tribute to one of the finest men I ever knew, without whose loyalty and efforts I doubt we could rejoice at this hour. No difference which direction you went, nor where you went, east or west, you heard that you could not pass at New Castle. It was Tom Boyle who issued the maps supplementing the eighty thousand I had issued at my own expense, sending traffic through which enabled us to get the proof and got the U. S. marking 224 and ultimately this wonderful improvement. I shall always pay tribute to Tom Boyle and the Castleton Hotel and I rejoice with you, Mr. Bischoff, his successor, and trust that this hotel and the greatness of the Benjamin-Franklin Highway shall always be linked together."

The Contractor
Another ovation was given to H. W. Findley of the County Construction Company as he rose to speak. The completion of the Benjamin Franklin highway through Lawrence-County was the fastest piece of road building ever seen here. The company completed the contract in about one half the time it had been estimated in a fashion that will be a monument to their work for many years.

"We are happy to have had an opportunity to do this job" said Mr. Findley, "we also found the officials and people here most co-operative and the job has been lightened by the fact that never once was there any friction."

A number of other speakers were called whose names were not on the program. Fred L. Rentz, president of The News and a good roads advocate since he was fourteen years of age spoke as did Frank S. Hoyt, former president of the New Castle Motor Club, J. B. Earnshaw of the Carbon Limestone Company, Frank Warren of the Bessemer Limestone and Cement Company, William J. Eroe of the Union Limestone Company, and Arthur Krebs of the Medusa Cement Corporation.

The dinner completed a successful day, for out of it came the completion of a fine highway, one that will serve this community and the entire United States well.

Butler Sends Delegation

Butler was well represented at the opening of the Benjamin Franklin highway on Friday, both at Hillsville and at the dinner in The Castleton hotel Friday night.

In the delegation were Mayor George Thompson, former Mayor Joseph Heinemann, County Commissioner William Cruickshank, George N. Burkholder, manager of the chamber of commerce, and Sims Nixon.

Many motorists from Ohio drove over for the opening exercises and a number of cars from Pittsburgh and surrounding cities were present. The exercises were held on the bridge with loud speaker horns carrying the speeches to the crowd. The speaking system was by courtesy of the Haney Furniture company.

Murder Trial To Start On Monday

Frank Mazzone, charged with the murder of Mike Mihlikovich, will be placed on trial at court on Monday morning. The murder occurred near Crescentdale when Mazzone shot Mihlikovich. The defendant will be represented by Attorney Samuel L. Clark and Edwin K. Logan; the prosecution by District Attorney John G. Lamore. It is understood that Mihlikovich will claim self defense.

Indianapolis, Ind., had the first union railroad station in the United States.

But do you know that research men have discovered that nineteen hundred years ago glass was made that was actually unbreakable. The secret has been lost so we'll have to be content with the non-shatterable material, which everybody agrees is much safer in a car window than the old kind.

It's coming around the time of year when the average boy or girl wish that their stockings were as long as their mother's.

Tonight is the first night that the stores will be open during the evening, and from now until Christmas eve, Christmas buying will take on a serious turn. It is getting rather late you know, but one more week of shopping remaining.

Christmas trees are going modernistic this year. One can have them tinted any color while he waits. the control of Coster later identified as Philip Musica, the ex-convict swindler.

Report Assets Disappeared
Disappearance of $18,000,000 in assets was reported and then came astonishing developments which threatened to submerge the original objective of the investigation.

Latest of the astonishing developments was that at least one member of congress might have been "inspired" by cash consideration to make speeches favoring legislation favored by the McKesson firm under Coster's administration.

Another came from the record of a grand jury investigation of corrupt legislative influences in Connecticut which revealed the presence of a McKesson lobbyist of considerable political influence in the Capitol cloisters at Hartford.

High Light Developments

In chronological order the other high light developments were:

1. Exposure of Coster as Philip Musica—brains of the immigrant family which turned from importing cheese to film-flaming Wall Street.

2. Exposure of other McKesson executives of polished front as brothers of Philip.

3. Philip's suicide.

4. The arrest of John M. Kantor who is represented as having been approached by two men with a proposition to play a part in putting McKesson & Robbins into the gun-running business.

Not convinced that Philip Musica was the real brains behind the tremendous fraud which he and his brothers carried out agencies of the government today sought a "higher-up," a "master mind" who might have directed the Musicas in their masquerade.

the American continent." Except for reservations in the Chilean assent, the adoption was unanimous.

The resolution set forth a three-fold plan for coping with such obstacles to trade as high tariffs, quotas, licenses, exchange returns and other restrictions, and affirmed faith in the "most-favored-nation" principle which is the cornerstone of President Roosevelt's international economic policies.

Features Of Plan
The three principal features of the plan are:

1.—Reaffirmation of previous Pan American decisions to "reduce to the greatest extent found possible all existing types of restrictions upon international trade."

2.—Endorsement of the negotiation of trade treaties "embodying the principle of equality of treatment."

3.—Substitution by American nations of "reasonable tariffs" for existing restrictions such as import quotas and licenses and exchange controls.

The resolution also pledged the American nations to reduce technical and administrative formalities in connection with customs regulations, and to "make every effort... To encourage other nations to adopt in the conduct of their commercial policies" the methods recommended.

The planary session, which was dedicated to Bolivia and Paraguay in homage to their settlement of the Gran Chaco war, was transformed by delegates' speeches into a manifestation of support of continental American solidarity and deprecation of the warlike spirit of certain European nations.

Harry W. Meehling.

Harry W. Meehling, aged 61 years, died at 3:15 p. m. Friday at his home, 835 East Washington street. He had been taken ill while at work on August 28.

The deceased was born August 29, 1877, at Worthington, Armstrong county, son of Philip and Rebecca Perkins Meehling. He had been employed by the Shenango tin mill in New Castle for the past 24 years. He was in the hot mill all that time until about two years ago when his health began to fail and he was transferred to the tin mill police force.

Mr. Meehling was a member of the Local Order of Moose. He had a great many friends.

Surviving are his wife, Tillie Claple Meehling, one son, Jack at home, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. C. H. Dietrich, of Martinsburg, O., Mrs. C. C. Leask of Oil City, Edward D. of New Castle, John of Sharon, Frank and William of Franklin.

Friends may call at the residence until Monday noon when the body will be removed to the Jos. B. Leyde mortuary. Highland at Winter where services will be conducted Monday at 3:30 p. m. Dr. C. B. Wingard of the Central Presbyterian church will be in charge. Interment will be in Castle View Burial Park.

Izzo Services.

A large crowd of friends attended the funeral of Joseph Izzo, South Ashland avenue resident, this morning at 10 o'clock in St. Lucy's church.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. S. Ippolito, assisted by Rev. N. DeMila and Rev. H. Bulterbach of St. Vitus church.

Pallbearers were Pasquale DeLuca, Giuseppe Comparone, Giovanni Murno, Gattone Massone, Raffaele Ruozzo and Giuseppe Goppio. Interment was in St. Lucy's cemetery.

Vernon Lang Funeral Time.

Funeral services for the late Vernon Lang, of Cleveland, formerly of New Castle, will take place on Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the Daniel Berry funeral home, 1411 West 65th street, Cleveland.

The body will then be brought to New Castle where an additional service will be conducted by Rev. F. E. Slough of St. John's Lutheran church in the new section of Oak Park cemetery. This service will be at 3:15 p. m. Monday. The casket will be opened at the grave so that New Castle friends may view the body.

would not put in his appearance until congress opened on Jan. 3—that he would not participate in White House conferences which began this week on the legislative program for the forthcoming session.

In fact, Garner smilingly told newspapermen who met his train that he will be in the White House before he has been in the capital a day. He will take luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt this noon, and "Gactus Jack" tacitly admitted it would be for the purpose that legislative strategy would be discussed.

Mrs. Garner, appearing no less healthy than her husband, accompanied him on his return. The vice-president will attend the Gridiron club dinner tonight.

Deaths of the Day

Frank Heasley Funeral.
Many friends were present Friday afternoon when funeral services for the late Frank G. Heasley of 802 Harbor street, were conducted in the Darrell Burke funeral home. Beautiful flowers had been sent from near and far.

The services, at 3 o'clock, were conducted by Rev. J. J. McIlvaine, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Honorary pallbearers were David M. Ritchie, Fred Wolford, Joseph Noga and Jud Hodge, members of the Lawrence County Funeral Directors association. The active pallbearers were George Bollinger, Sam Reed, Arch Gordon, Philip Fleckstein, Joseph Samuels and Jack Harwell. Interment was in Oak Park cemetery.

James Yates Johnston.

In poor health for several years, James Yates Johnston, aged 32 years, of 537 Sixth street, Struthers, O., died in the Mahoning County Sanitarium at 5:10 p. m., Friday.

Mr. Johnston, a former resident of Lowellville, is survived by his wife, Thelma Losh Johnston, whom he married four and a half years ago. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Cora Johnston of Lowellville and three brothers, Harry, Fred and John Johnston, all of Youngstown.

Funeral services will take place Monday at 2 p. m. from the Davidson funeral home at Struthers with Rev. H. L. Myers in charge. Interment will be in Lake Park cemetery. The family will be at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock; also Sunday afternoon and evening.

McDevitt Funeral Time.

High mass of requiem for the late William C. McDevitt, aged 30 years, of 501 Ober street, will be celebrated at 10 o'clock Monday morning in St. Mary's church, of which the deceased was a member. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.

Mr. McDevitt passed away at 12:30 p. m. Friday after a year's illness. He leaves his wife, Catherine Shaughnessy McDevitt, and two sons, Charles, 6, and Donald, 4.

He is also survived by his parents, Joseph P. and Ella Madine McDevitt; two brothers, Francis and John P., and three sisters, Elizabeth McDevitt, Mrs. Harry Hagan and Mrs. Edna Wadlinger of this city.

Ted deceased was born November 23, 1908. He won many friends during his short lifetime, and to all his passing comes as a sad shock. The body will be at the residence on Ober street until a short time before the funeral mass.

THE CAROLS OF CHRISTMAS

CHOIRS are practicing the Christmas carols which will ring through the churches on that holy day. The first sounds Christmas morning in many neighborhoods are the sweet voices in the starlight, telling us that Christ is born in Bethlehem.

The custom is said to have started in ancient religious plays, when carol singers were sent out to entertain the people between the acts.

So the melody of the carol singers is like some old voice echoing down the ages. Some of these old tunes were sung through the halls of Europe, long before America was discovered, or before printed words were placed on any book page. When such a strain lives on while ages pass, some vital truth must lie behind it.

AMERICAS SHOULD UNITE AGAINST 'ISMS'

It would be regrettable if the delegates to the Eighth Pan-American Conference, now in session at Lima, Peru, failed to take a strong stand for the protection of this hemisphere against outside aggression and interference.

To this end it appears hardly necessary that the American nations be bound by formal military compacts.

But there should be a thorough understanding on the part of all the Americas that Communism, Nazism and Fascism have no place whatsoever in the New World. All of the twenty-one republics represented at Lima should bind themselves to oppose any infiltration of these alien philosophies.

According to reliable accounts from Peru, envoys, scouts and spies of the foreign dictatorships are doing everything they can to keep the Americas' doors open to totalitarian influence. That a failure by the Conference to agree on vital points needed for solidarity would bring joy to foreign governments that have tried to drive democracy into oblivion is plainly apparent.

As usual in these conferences, some South American nations are more reluctant than others to raise bars against importation of European ideas and to join wholeheartedly in the creation of New World unity. It is the shortsighted contention of these nations that American solidarity already is a fact and that perils to this hemisphere from Europe or from Asia are neither imminent nor impressive.

The Lima conference would be making a grave mistake if it underestimated the dangers to the Americas in the ruthless aggression of those nations where democracy has been ground into the dust. Neglect to establish a solid front against Communism, Nazism and Fascism would be, conceivably, to put in jeopardy the safety and independence of the nations of North and South America.

DECORATING THE TREE

We regret to report that little progress has been made along the line of a rumbustious Christmas tree. In its own element, a spruce or balsam is not rated a deciduous or shedding tree, but becomes so almost at once in a heated home. Picking up after a moulting spruce is greatly expedited by a vacuum cleaner, the sinuses and respiratory system of which are understood to be benefited by inhaling the soothing aromas given off by an evergreen.

To decorate a Christmas tree without dissension, in the average large household, it is best to ship all members of the family but one to another state. The rule is to buy a tree 18 inches too high for the room and to spend an evening trying to decide whether to saw a piece from the butt, thus sacrificing the luxurious lower boughs, or to lop a couple of feet from the top and make it look like the dickens. One must make this decision for himself. In any event he will regret it.

The only safe way to decorate a tree standing nine feet is to hire one of the taller circus freaks, who are usually idle at this season, to attach the stars, colored balls, tinsel, artificial icicles and what not to its upper reaches. Great care must be taken to provide a firm support for a tree, as nothing is as unprofitable as a quarrel with a falling balsam, laden with fragile bric-a-brac. In dealing with the problem of the dead bulb in the all-or-none type of tree lighting circuit, it is best to ignore it entirely and hang another line.

If these directions are faithfully followed, much of the quality of an ordeal may be eliminated from a fine old annual ceremony.

What's Right With America?

By Faith Baldwin, Writer

The young people of America are right. They are clearer thinking, they are more courageous, I believe, than the generation which fathered them. If they are more disillusioned, that is our fault and not theirs. If they feel that we did not make a very good world for them, they also feel that they can make a better. That is the American spirit, the torch which each generation hands on to the next. "This is my legacy to you. Better it."

The spirit of America is right, despite the present unrest, the uncertainty and fear which strive to undermine it. I feel that these manifestations are surface only. The basic spirit remains, and it is that which created a great country from a wilderness, 300 years ago. Look at Europe, old and sick! Europe, Asia—how many centuries have gone to their making and unmaking? How few to ours!

We are young, we make mistakes, we fall in with the procession, shout catch phrases, believe in rumour, are impatient. With our hearts set up on progress we dislike to wait for growth. We take fire from the current "isms" and work ourselves into a lather. But underneath—well, there is a spirit which does not die, a building spirit, which has hope which looks forward which is proud of its heritage and operates superbly in the face of disaster.

What is right with America? . . . All the things which matter most.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

EIGHT YEAR HIGH SCHOOL

In many parts of the United States, especially in the mid-west and far-west, the junior college with two years beyond the four-year high school has been developed in recent years. Throughout the nation an extra year or half-year has been made available in many a high school for its graduates.

Now comes a report of a three-year survey committee, headed by Dr. Luther H. Gulick, for the New York State Board of Regents, recommending the establishment of eight-year secondary schools throughout New York state to replace the traditional four-year high school. Is this desirable for that state? For other states?

Same Lessons

"Too many schools," said Dr. Gulick, "have been forced to go on and on teaching the same lessons, from the same books, in the same way, to all the children alike, year after year—all but ignoring the changes which have come into our whole life. The result is inescapable, the school system of the state of New York is now turning out a great number of youth each year, with and without diplomas, who are not adequately educated, who are not prepared to play a helpful part in the life of this state."

"Many are not ready to become citizens and take a useful part in community and family life. Many are not ready to go to work and later to adapt themselves to shifting economic conditions. Many who should go on are not ready for advanced or professional education, not ready to pursue their own intellectual or technical development."

College Preparatory
Dr. Gulick reported that the state's high schools are still being run primarily as college preparatory institutions, although only one-fifth of their graduates ever enter colleges.

"The time has come to make over the high schools so that they will be useful to the four-fifths who finish their formal schooling when they leave the secondary schools," he said.

The report predicted that the expense of this project might be met by savings effected by the decreased enrollment in elementary schools. We little realize how rapid this decrease has been.

What do you think about the proposal?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

EVER TRIED IT?

A friend who told me of an experience the like of which he had not had in years. He was in a car which had a blowout so far from a service station that the occupants had to change the tire.

"Have you ever tried changing a tire lately on one of the new model cars with one of the new model jacks?" he asked me and continued: "You need a correspondence course in an engineering school before you tackle it. First, I and my friends tried to figure out the jack, a long steel bar with grooves in it and a little doozer on the side of it like a monkey on a stick. It had no base and apparently was too long to go under the car anyway. One fellow got down on his back and explored the underside of the underpinning but could find no place for the jack. We finally gave up the idea of putting it under the car at all and decided merely to try to find out how to use it. We then got out our instruction book."

"It was a swell instruction book. It had ninety-four separate indexed topics and wonderful pictures, but nothing about jacks. It told a lot about changing tires, but this information was concerned mostly with solemn advice to put air in the tube. After ten minutes we threw the book in the ditch and grabbed the jack and tucked it under the front bumper. By working the jack up to the last notch, after a purely accidental discovery of how to put the handle in, we raised the tire a trifle off the ground. Then we couldn't find how to take the wheel off. We dug the book out of the bushes, but it was silent as the Sphinx on the subject of tire mysteries."

"One of us said the silver disk on the wheel hub ought to come off. Hammering proved in vain. Some body else suggested dynamite. One fellow got mad and hit the hub and half of the inside of the wheel fell off. He had solved the mystery. The book was thrown away again. Biggest surprise came when there were no more lurking hazards. "We actually got the tire changed."

My friend closed the story with the statement that if he ever meets up with the guy who invented that jack, he will probably wind up in the State's prison. When?

A friend of ours sold her entire tangerine crop in the south for 37½ cents a box. They were fine. When you buy tangerines in the northern market you will note the great difference in what they were sold for and what you pay for them. Too much cost between the tree and the eater.

The death of that Gaston Means in the pen for participation in a Lindbergh kidnapping fraud did not cause so much grief, but the $104,000 he got for his crooked work is causing a lot of concern.

Another old story that has been revived: The salesman had worked on Uncle Jeff for hours trying to sell him a car.

One nice thing about a lot of Hollywood actors is that they beat and shoot one another up saying that trouble for those who have to tolerate them and their product. Gov. Gilbert Stuart, the celebrated portrait painter, once met a lady in the street, who saluted him with: "Ah, Mr. Stuart, I have just seen your miniature, and kissed it because it was so much like you."

"And did it kiss you in return?" "Why, no." "Then," said Stuart, "it was not like me."

A big league baseball umpire was visiting here recently and was stopped for running past a boulevard stop sign.

The copper got out his ticket book and started taking down the name. "You're not—the umpire?" asked the copper. "Why, yes," said umps, a bit pleased to find he was a national figure. "Go on, then," said the policeman. "I went to a game you umpired once and know that you are blind anyway, so how could you see that stop sign?"

Reader's Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel—I have a long, narrow table. How should I set it for an odd number of people?
O. P. R.

Answer—If, when you have five (including you and your husband) and you object to sitting two guests on one side and one on the opposite side, place all three guests on one side, and on the opposite side a low vase of flowers flanked by four candles. If your odd number exceeds five, you will then have to set your table in the usual way, placing some guests on each side.

Hastings Appointment Draws Fire
Is Named On G. O. P. Policy Group
Is Held Tolerant Conservative

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—The Republican party's managerial machine, headed by National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, has come in for a deal of unflattering comment from all liberal sources for putting ex-Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, on its policy-making executive committee to succeed Charles D. Hilles, of New York, retired. Incidentally, of course, this comment is equally uncomplimentary to Hastings. The liberals' choice for the place was Kenneth F. Simpson, who directed Thomas E. Dewey's recent gubernatorial campaign against Governor Herbert H. Lehman. Dewey lost, to be sure, but there's no denying that Simpson waged an exceedingly creditable fight for him in the Empire commonwealth.

The conservatives' preference was Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, a Manhattan silk stocking-ite of Standard Oil antecedents.

Hamilton and his subordinate national committee members held that Simpson is entirely too radical; that Mrs. Pratt is entirely too conservative. So they hit on Hastings as a "compromise."

He's a Conservative

The idea that he's a "compromise" would throw the liberals into spasms of mirth if they were not so sore about it. They say he's about twice as conservative as Mrs. Pratt. They say he comes from a politically inconsequential state; has an ear to the DuPont interests; a dyed-in-the-wool reactionary. They remark that even Delaware defeated him when he came up for reelection to the Senate. "I merely quote from some of the jabs at him that I've seen and heard from liberal newspapers and spokesmen."

Now, I have a notion that the ex-senator isn't quite such an ogre as the liberals represent him to be. I don't dispute that he's conservative and a very hard-boiled Old Guardsman. I don't know anything about it but my impression that he has been a DuPont lawyer—probably a corking, good one. Possibly Delaware is a politically out-of-the-way state. I merely quote from some of the jabs at him that I've seen and heard from liberal newspapers and spokesmen.

Nevertheless, I always have liked him for an interview he once gave me.

Personally I'm temperamentally pretty liberal. Ever I've had to recognize that, on an average, conservatives are more tolerant of liberalism than are liberals of conservatism. A conservative generally will concede that there are conservative abuses. A liberal seldom will agree that there are any dangers in liberalism.

But I'd thought that Dan Hastings was too conservative to admit anything.

Well, I was getting this interview with him.

It was back in the days when he was in the Senate. Conservatism (Continued On Page Five)

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. Ambassador to London, blasting Nazi persecution of Jews: "I think it's terrible, the most terrible thing I ever heard of. Oh, how I would like to say a lot more!"

WASHINGTON—Senator Hattie Caraway (D) of Arkansas: "I feel that whenever women go into the presidency, she will be fully qualified for that high office."

CHICAGO—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "There should be a partnership between capital and labor calling for the organization of workers as a collective partner with management as the mother participating unit."

NEW ORLEANS—Senator Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri: "Rarely do bureaucrats work in unison except in persistently increasing governmental expenditures."

IT has now been nearly a year since Mr. Walker had an official job. The last coordinator was Mr. James Roosevelt, the man moving-picture and insurance man. The amount of coordination achieved by James was never visible to the naked eye. It must have amused Mr. Walker when he read about what young James was going to do, but his devotion remains undiminished. Today he is unselfishly serving as treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and in his spare time collects from various fat-cat friends of the President money to build the Hyde Park edifice to house the Roosevelt papers, which is unique in one respect—it is, in effect, a self-erected memorial.

NOW, reflectors of White House views tell us that the President needs Mr. Walker in Washington again. One suggestion is that he will take the place of Mr. Harry Hopkins in a hot spot. Among other things that spend, space, tax and have been tied to him like a tin can to a dog, and it seems desirable to get him in some other position, such as Secretary of Commerce, where it won't be heard to rattle. A second idea is that Mr. Walker may go into the Cabinet as Postmaster General if and when the able and astute Mr. Farley goes into private business. A third notion is that the President needs Mr. Walker to handle the national defense problem for him. A fourth is that once more he is going to try to "coordinate." In any event, the word is out that "Good Old Frank" is coming down again. What a man! He certainly can take it.

Teacher—Now, Hayton, if I subtract 20 from 45, what's the difference? Hayton (product of the new "scrambled math" system)—That's what I say. Who cares?

GARDEN IN WINTER

And now the garden lies asleep. The summer roses pilloved deep. The vacant wren houses, bleak and bare. The horror of desertion wear. And branch and eave and window sill. Where song birds sang, are strangely still.

The blue jays and the sparrows brawl. For bits of food—but that is all! The gentler birds have long since flown. To lands where snow is never known. The gales come stomping through the gale. But naught they find to violate.

The gold forsythia wears in May. Let winter since safely stored away. Let winter now ransack the place. 'Twill find no bit of Queen Anne's lace. The garden treasures, underground. In vaults secure are safe and sound.

'King Of Kings' Will Be Shown

Cecil B. DeMille Production To Be Exhibited In Central Presbyterian

In the pre-Christmas program of Central Presbyterian church will be presented Sunday evening at 7:45 a Cecil De Mille production, the "King of Kings". It consists of 12 reels. It is an elaborate and reverent attempt to use the motion pictures to tell the greatest story in the world. It is told on the screen with fidelity, reverence and marvelous artistry. Dr. Parks Cadman, former president of Federal Council of Churches of Christ, said "King of Kings" is the best motion picture in the world today. No man, woman or child should miss it. And Will Rogers said: "It is a duty to let you know about it. The only way you could make a greater picture would be to have a better subject, and I doubt if there ever will be a better subject during our lifetime than the story of Christ."

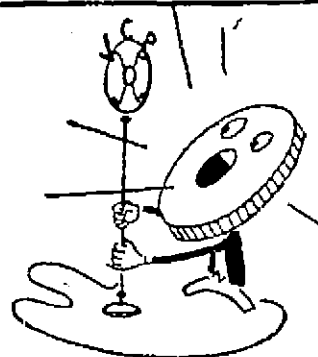

Nativity Pageant For Presbyterian S. S. In Morning

A pageant depicting traditional scenes of the nativity of Jesus will be presented at the worship service of the Sunday school of First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. There will be special music by the Schubert Sextet and Isabel Leslie, soloist. Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser will be the reader. These beautiful scenes are founded on the Bible account of the birth of Christ and the inspiration of the world's great painters and poets.

Ministers Will Convene Monday

The New Castle Ministerial Association will meet at 10:30 a. m., Monday in the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. F. S. Nelgh, of this city, retired Methodist Episcopal minister and former district superintendent, will give a review of the book, "War Against God."

WOMAN'S CLUB

Members of the Woman's club held their annual Christmas party Thursday afternoon in the Presbyterian church. Special guests were Mrs. C. H. Frampton, Mrs. Jno. Kirkwood, Mrs. J. R. McConahy and Mrs. Gwendolyn E. Harvey.

A very pleasing program was arranged in charge of Mrs. H. Morrow. Santa arrived with a sled load of gifts for the ladies to draw from after which a delicious menu, buffet style, was served from a beautifully decorated table.

Mesdames Lenora Stapf, James Glover and C. L. Repman served the lunch.

I don't call that a hard-boiled attitude.

Christmas Music To Feature Some Programs Sunday

Entertainment For Youngsters At Y. W. Sunday

Hundred Twenty-Five Tots Have Been Invited To Annual Affair

VIRGINIA DUFF COMMITTEE HEAD

Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, the clubs of the Young Women's Christian Association will entertain a crowd of 125 little tots from the Terrace Avenue and North Street schools, and the Elm street Y. at an annual Christmas program in the Y. W. C. A. building.

The youngsters from the first and second grades at Terrace Avenue will be in charge of Miss Pearl Hockenberry, while the first graders who have been invited from North street will be in charge of Miss Mary Martin. Miss Rose Brown will head the little Alice in Wonderland club girls from the Elm Street Branch.

Miss Virginia Duff is at the head of the committee on arrangements for the program. Her assistants are: Pauline Shook, True Blue club; Mrs. Lila Mae, Blue Triangle club; Mary Alice, Square Circle; Grace Lawrence and Dorothy Pitzer, Shenango Girl Reserves; Cora Rose Jones, Joy Givers club; Elmer Fielding, Senior Reserves of Elm Street; Hazel Mae Brown, Junior Reserves of Elm Street.

All of the sponsoring clubs will take part in the entertainment. Transportation will be furnished from Terrace avenue by the Junior Business Girls. Candy, donated by the clubs, was packed this morning, all ready for distribution from the Christmas tree.

Dedication Day Crowds Expected

New Calvary Tabernacle On Vogan Street To Be Dedicated Sunday

As Sunday is "dedication day" for the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle, Vogan street, on the East Side, it is anticipated that many hundreds will attend the services of the day at the new evangelistic and Bible conference center.

The activities will begin with the Bible school hour at 9:45, regular morning worship and preaching service at 11 o'clock, then the dedication service at 2:30, senior and young people's fellowship at 6:30 and evening evangelistic service at 7:30.

Rev. J. C. Kellog, cowboy evangelist from Tacoma, Wash., will be the speaker at all services, while Rev. Russell E. Kaufman of Zanesville, O., will be in charge of the musical program. Both have had years of experience in evangelism.

Mr. Kellog has announced the following subjects: "The White Horse Rider of Revelation 19", 11 o'clock; "The United States in Prophecy", 2:30 p. m., and "From the Saddle to the Pulpit", 7:30, the evangelist's story.

Salvation Army Christmas Party

Event For Children Will Take Place Next Friday Morning At 10 O'clock

The Salvation Army Christmas party will be held in the Salvation Army hall, 123 Water street, on Friday morning, Dec. 23, at 10 o'clock. Much work has been done in the past few weeks to make this party a success. Toys that have been sent in by the people of New Castle have been repaired and painted in the Army's toy shop. Several local men have given their time in repairing these toys. There are a few things necessary yet to make the party a success. Doll clothes or cloth to make them with, and more dolls would be very welcome. Fruit and candy will also be welcome.

Mayor Charles McGrath, who spent much time last year with the Salvation Army officials in planning and preparing the Christmas party for 600 children at the Penn theater, is again planning to be at the Salvation Army Christmas party to greet the children. Mayor McGrath is a member of the Salvation Army advisory board.

Two Choirs Will Sing Sunday Night In First Methodist

An impressive Christmas choral service has been arranged for the First Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening which will be sung by the church and chapel choirs of 75 voices.

They will sing antiphonal anthems and carols of other lands many of which have been arranged by Clarence and Helen A. Dickinson. The church quartet, Margaret Williams, soprano, Helen Felch, contralto, David Jones, tenor and Samuel McCleary, bass, will also sing. Mrs. J. Carl Miner will play piano accompaniments.

Both choirs are under the direction of Edwin Lewis, organist and director of music.

HEALTHY STOCK—GREAT HERITAGE OF THE QUINTS.

Yesterday, in the course of my discussion on heredity, I suggested that young people about to get married would do well to give some thought to the background of the respective mate, not only of the individual but of his or her family as well. It may help later on to overcome weaknesses or defects which would otherwise be very serious.

I think one of the greatest social developments of the last couple of years is that various states have adopted regulations requiring blood tests before marriage licenses are issued. I do hope that these requirements will become nation-wide throughout Canada and the United States. Even if these tests can't be made 100 percent effective, they will still have a tremendous influence on marriage and on the health of the resultant offspring.

Most people who get married will be glad to have these tests; they will be glad to show that they are healthy, particularly when they realize that if they aren't it will be reflected in any children they might have.

I think this matter of healthy children requiring healthy parents is very, very important. I know that right from the time the Quintuplets were born I told the newspapermen that if the children lived, it would be their great heritage of health that would do most for them, for that is what they had on both sides of the family—a long line of sturdy, healthy ancestors free from disease.

During past generations parents had a lot to do with the marriages of their children, and in its way I think it was a good thing. By that I mean that the parents' only desire was the welfare of their child. In smaller centers, this was a great factor because everybody knew everything about everybody else.

This state of affairs is largely past today. Young people now make up their minds and so they must abide by their own decisions. Naturally, this does lead to a lot of grief, but in time it will correct itself. Calm and clear sight is difficult in times of social change, especially when so many have fallen away from religious beliefs.

Beliefs in the sanity of marriage is another thing which has largely disappeared, and so we have the present high rate of divorce. I think one of the troubles is that people today haven't the patience to wait and see if the marriage will work out. The first time it is put to the test they throw up their hands and quit. Another fault, too, I think, is that people wait too long after marriage before having children, and these childless marriages lead to a breakdown of affection and of home life.

In time, I am confident, public opinion will lead to the formation of regulations—I am referring to legal regulations—as to what is desirable in our marriage laws. With the regulation of marriages, then the divorces will take care of themselves.

CENTER CHURCH

IRA LEEPER CLASS

Members of the Ira Leeper Bible class held their Christmas party in the parsonage on Wednesday evening. The hours were spent socially and old time readings were given by Mrs. John King, Mrs. Anna Milliron and J. M. Houk. Miss Ellen Prew led devotion.

The president, Mrs. Milliron, in behalf of the class members, presented the teacher, Mrs. B. M. Wallace, with a gift, in appreciation of her faithfulness to the class.

The social committee, Mrs. J. G. Weir, Mrs. Joseph Baldwin and Mrs. Charles Hartzel, served delicious refreshments.

EVENING SERVICES

Members of the Y. P. C. U. had charge of the evening services last Sunday evening. They presented a beautiful Christmas program. Miss Marjorie Guy led the devotions and Mrs. B. M. Wallace, Henry Wellhausen and Burton Wallace read the Christmas scripture.

Misses Imogene Wallace and Mary Belle Leslie rendered a Christmas duet with Miss Ida Guy as accompanist. Miss Olive Wallace, who is president of the Y. P. C. U., conducted a candlelight service, showing a picture of the nativity and using this as the theme of the service.

CENTER CHURCH NOTES

Hope To Minimize Likelihood Of Poultry And Cat- tle Thefts

Twenty-four hour patrols in an effort to prevent poultry and cattle thefts in Lawrence county are being maintained by members of the state motor police stationed on North Jefferson street.

The officers are apt to be on any highway, improved and unimproved, at any hour of the day or night. The close watch kept before Thanksgiving day had considerable to do with keeping down thefts and burglaries in rural sections.

Should a theft occur state motor police may be telephoned at 1000.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Doctors used to deal a lot with children's diseases.

Preventive medicines made many of them rather rare.

There are more old people now than ever before.

Doctors are learning more and more about geriatrics.

Pediatrics deals with the diseases of childhood.

Geriatrics has to do with the diseases of old age.

Many of these diseases are of a degenerative nature.

Elderly people frequently do not care for an examination.

They often present psychic as well as physical maladjustments.

A sympathetic understanding is a great therapeutic aid.

The age of retirement from work is being extended.

Geriatrics is becoming an important medical field.

At the county registration bureau Thursday, thirteen voters changed their party affiliation from Democrat to Republican. Six new Republican registrations were made and one Democrat.

Sheriff M. M. Ingham has served papers in an amicable action in ejectment brought by the New Brighton Building and Loan Association against Everett V. Garwig to secure possession of a property on the Country Club plot in Wayne township. The property had been sold on an article of agreement, the terms of which the building and loan claims, have not been met.

W. Blaine Smith, a minor, by his father, Walter B. Smith, has filed an action in trespass at the prothonotary's office against E. P. Grim. The amount of damages claimed is $5,000, but no statement of claim has yet been placed on record.

County officials and attorneys are preparing to send a Christmas postcard to Attorney William J. Moffatt, whose present address is Masonic Home, Elizabethtown, Pa. Other friends of Attorney Moffatt are invited to remember him at Christmas.

Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts, John A. Edgar, announces that the last day to file applications for divorce to be heard at divorce court on December 30th, will be ten days before that date, or December 20. Indications are that there will be another big list of divorces to be heard. The last list was one of the largest heard for some time.

Letters of administration in the estate of the late John Rush, of this city, have been granted by Register and Recorder, Orville Potter, to Gladys M. Rush. Letters testamentary in the estate of George T. Richards, late of Ellwood City, have been granted to Helen M. Richards.

An application for divorce has been filed at the prothonotary's office by Alice M. Klyszejko, against John Klyszejko, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. The couple was married in Wheeling, W. Va., in June 1937. Mrs. Klyszejko alleges her husband beat her with a belt on which there was a buckle, blacked her eyes and bloodied her nose, threatened her with a butcher knife, and chased her with a hatchet declaring that he would "chop her up."

Reports of the Federal Home Bank Board, received by Register and Recorder, Orville Potter, show that foreclosures on non-farm property during the month of October dropped to the lowest point since the peak of 1933. The foreclosures during the month numbered 8,733 less than for the same month last year. Foreclosures during the first ten months of the year were 30,000 cases or 23 per cent less than for the corresponding period in 1937. The statistics are compiled in the twelve Federal reserve districts.

Mrs. Sarah E. Barge, use of Claire McCullough, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against R. H. Wilson receiver of the Union National Bank, of New Castle and also against the First National Bank of Lawrence county, to recover $630.76. It is claimed that Sarah E. Barge in July 1919 had opened a savings account at the Union National bank and later made a gift of the account to her niece, Claire McCullough. Sarah E. Barge died in February 1937. Meanwhile the Union National Bank had gone into receivership and its assets were taken over by the First National Bank. Legal matters in connection with the receivership have held up the account.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A writer for the London Daily Mail recently put this country down as a nation of softies. We were a pallid lot, hugging a steam radiator, afraid of outdoors, devitalized by hot baths.

Two million husky skiers give him an answer. When you take a ski-jump of from 150 to 250 feet, you're hitting the landing in an hour and a half, speed increases as you take the air. Wits, muscle, skill and nerves are tuned together in a symphonic passage of superlative courage, and the slightest slip means that a mountain side is going to rise up and smack you. Two million, they tell me, is about right for the national ski multitude, including lads and lassies, on up to those with snow in their hair. Not so bad for "softies."

Youth lifts its eyes to the hills. If you're out at 3:30 or 6 o'clock on a cold winter morning, you'll see groups of boys and girls with their ski gear, catching the early train. Those trains, with special schedules and services to ski regions, have become a commonplace of winter transportation. In the wake of the skiers, there is a new merry-go-round of tight money, with millions spent for equipment, toggery, transportation and parties and skylarking. Many a languishing old New England inn has been pulled out of the red by the rollicking ski crowds.

Winter sports of the last two or three decades, including skiing, skating and sledding, have released a Niagara of zestful energy in America. And that is a net gain. It raises questions of furthest professionalization; it yields health and fun, somewhat interchangeable and synonymous words, at a time when we can use a lot of both. It—skiing—lets in all-comers, from the dim-stored girl to Percy van Hoophen-Hyphen, who flies his plane to the Laurentian mountains for a week-end skiing whirl. All in all, from the Yosemite to Mt. Katahdin, the sport reveals some of the grandest mountains ever tressed up anywhere and unbelievably lovely and thrilling scenery.

Fred Harris, a Dartmouth undergraduate in 1910, was among those who led the way down the zigzag slide to the flying leap at the end. As he saw Dartmouth in that day, the London Daily Mail writer would have been in for a build on. Outdoors was there but the boys hadn't heard about it. Young Harris got up the Dartmouth Outing club. He made some skis, obtained others in New York and almost overnight boomed up a tremendous skiing and skating excitement.

At first, only the Canadians seemed to get the idea. Then Williams college came in and later Middlebury and a string of others. The winter carnival developed and winter pastimes each year took in more territory in the college sports curriculum. Girls used to go to the Dartmouth ski parties in high-heeled shoes and silk stockings. They soon got over that foolishness, and women's costumes for skiing have been both a blaze of color and a model of utility.

While speed on the slide and distance on the jump are the factors of scoring, in some tournaments, grace and ease of performance are also scored. The long ski-jump is thrilling and beautiful, and, of course, is greatly embellished by perfection of form. It takes a few years to acquire the supreme perfection of form—body slightly jacked-knifed at hips, leaning well forward, knees straight, skis parallel, close together and tilted slightly upward. Arms circle slowly in a rotating movement, suggesting swimming.

Skiing regions are mainly New England, the Adirondacks and the Catskills, the Laurentian mountains, Minnesota, the Wasatch range in Utah, the Colorado Rockies and the Yosemite. The National Association, which now has more than 200 clubs, grew from the activities of Colonel Tellefren in Minnesota in 1904. But back to Götterdämmerung, the twilight of the gods, goes skiing in its dim Norse beginnings. Take a ski train and eavesdrop a bit as the youngsters are plotting their trails and arguing techniques. Then you will need an interpreter as the talk will be about slaloming, binding, gelaidsprunging and christians. The clothes, their diving, their skill and now their lingo make them a race apart. But we kitchen-door sliders can afford to give them a big hand. Fred Harris loosed a glorious avalanche.

"Be Sure Doors Are Locked"—Criswell

Business men having on display valuable gifts and other articles should make sure that the doors to their stores are closed before they depart for home at night. Doors are tried by police several times each night. However, some times there is quite a lapse of time between visits by patrolmen.

"Proprietors should place a small card, bearing the name of the proprietor, address or telephone number on the window. This will help police reach him quickly," Police Chief Ralph A. Criswell stated today.

WARNED AGAINST STRANGERS' CHECKS

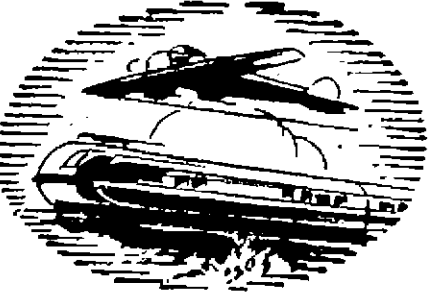

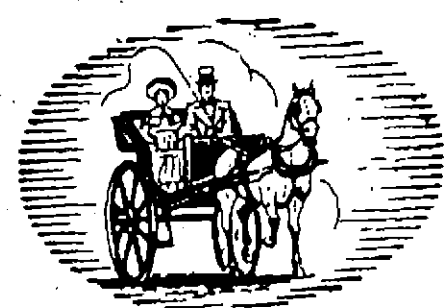

"Do not cash checks for strangers" was a timely police tip issued this morning by Chief of police Ralph A. Criswell.

"Confidence men, realizing that business house clerks and proprietors are busy, may attempt to cash bad checks," he said.

What if fighting planes cost over a billion? A $5,000 fence is cheap if it saves a $50,000 property.

Security

OLD and NEW

OLD age and long years of service do not in themselves signify Safety and Security, yet, they do lend reassurance that an alert and conservative management has been successful in formulating policies that have proved practical under all the widely varying conditions of the past half century.

NEW safeguards, in addition to 51 years of continuous service, have been provided for investors funds in New Castle Mutual, including membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the Insurance of each individual investment, up to $5000, by the FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION.

WE invite your investment in the INSURED shares of this Pioneer Association today.

December 17.

Dear Brother Lion:
Our meeting next Tuesday will be the annual Christmas party for the blind. We will entertain them at a turkey dinner in the Third U. P. church, corner of East Washington and Adams streets, at 6:30 p. m. Bring your guest early so as to afford them an opportunity to visit before dinner.

Jim Vogan and his committee are ready with a fine program of entertainment. The Ladies of the Lions will play the role of Santa. Let us make this a joyful evening for everyone. And remember, no meeting Tuesday noon. Very truly yours,
THOMAS I. ELLIOTT,
Secretary.

Story Hour For Library Tuesday

First story hour to be held in the local public library will be held Tuesday afternoon, December 20, it was announced today by Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian.

According to Miss Joyce, this will be a dedicatory program for the assembly room in the basement of the new building. For the occasion Miss Joyce has prepared a special group of Christmas stories.

The program will begin as soon after the close of school as possible, allowing enough time for the children to get to the library.

It isn't true that we no longer trust in Providence. That's all we're doing about the future of the Philippines.

Heart-Ache Messages Reach Police Today

Heart-ache messages are beginning to flow over the police teletypes and in many homes throughout the state and nation there are women speculating as to where her wondering boy or daughter may be and praying that he or she will return for Christmas.

Several messages, asking police to watch for missing sons and daughters were carried on the State motor police teletype today.

STATE AGENT WARNS LICENSE NEEDED TO SELL ROOTED TREES

Pennsylvania law—under a 1937 act—requires a license for selling rooted Christmas trees. William S. Gilroy, Meadville, nursery inspector of the bureau of plant industry of the State Department of Agriculture, warned today.

Gilroy yesterday, before Alderman Wallace J. Ewing, charged Joe Anselmo, 1242 East Washington street, with selling rooted trees minus a license. He paid a $3 fine.

Germany Will Enforce Decrees

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—A nationally coordinated program for vigorous enforcement of federal Anti-Jewish decrees and for prevention of sporadic Anti-Jewish activities by extremists was transmitted today to the responsible executives and administrators of all of German states and provinces.

The program, presented by high government officials at an extraordinary "Anti-Jewish" session of scores of representatives of regional administrations, is designed to unify methods of enforcement of the federal decrees for outlawing Jews from the German community.

The decrees, which go into effect January 1, will govern the role of the Jews in Germany until they leave the Reich in a mass emigration which is expected by the authorities to take place within the next two years.

Order New Outfits For Croton Band

Placement of a $700 order for new blue and red uniforms for New Castle's famed Croton band, was announced this morning by Richard E. Rentz, co-chairman with Alec Samuels of the Citizens Music Council committee handling the uniform purchase.

It has been 20 years since Fred L. Rentz organized the drive for $1,500 for the purchase of the band's first uniforms.

The new suits should be here January 20.

Betsy Ross Orange Lodge Dinner Meet

Two Hundred Attend Dinner
Meeting; Gifts Exchanged
And Appointments
Made

Betsy Ross Orange Home, Chapter No. 1, of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, assembled in the Modern Woodman hall Friday evening, 2264 East Washington street, for a social and business session, combined.

A tureen dinner was served at 6 o'clock at banquet tables colorfully decorated in keeping with the season, and the hall throughout was equally as attractive, due to the efforts of Mrs. E. B. Ray, chairman of decorations, and Lew Doud, who assisted.

Mrs. George Miller was chairman of the menu, and she was ably assisted by Mrs. John Gross, Mrs. Belle Hopwood and Mrs. W. A. Hoover. The tables were in charge of Mrs. Bess Dukes, with Mrs. Edna Woods assisting. Places marked for 200 guests.

Following the serving, attention was centered about the two huge Christmas trees, and the outlay of gifts placed beneath each. These were distributed by Mrs. E. B. Ray, Mrs. Julia Miller and Betty Jane Davis.

Later, the regular lodge meeting was in progress with Mrs. Henrietta Davis, auxiliary president, in the chair. It was announced meetings will be held once every three months, their next to be in February. Appointments were made as follows: Mrs. Jola Miller of Butler, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Kate Womel-dorf, chaplain; Mrs. Eliza Huston, guard; Mrs. Julia Miller, historian; Alvie Huber of Ellwood City, pianist; Mrs. Hazel Daugherty of Ellwood, ways and means. The prize of the evening was carried off by Mrs. Bess Dukes. A silver offering was taken to send a Christmas treat to the children of the Orange Home at Hatbur, Pa. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Martha Washington No. 24 group, held a short business meeting.

William Finlayson, observer at the St. Paul, Minn., weather bureau, got a call from a businessman who wanted to know whether there was any snow in southern Wyoming. Finlayson studied his records and said there was not. "Ah! I thought not," exclaimed the caller. "One of my salesmen just wired me: 'Stalled in a snowbank; please send money!'"

Young Pastor Tells How 'Y' Helps Boys

Rev. Frank Baldwin Speaks To Gra-Y Throng At Night Rally

One hundred and fifteen Gra-Y club boys of five schools—Lincoln Garfield, Thaddeus Stevens, Croton, Ben Franklin and Neshannock township heard Rev. Frank Baldwin, youthful pastor of the North Kortright, (N. Y.) United Presbyterian church speak on "The Part the Y. M. C. A. Plays in a Boy's Life" at a rally in the "Y" last night. Rev. Baldwin is a former resident here. He is here for a short holiday visit.

A basketball tournament, won by the Lincoln-Garfield team after a final game which ended 11-10, preceded the speaking program. Al Jones conducted it. Dinner followed the games.

The intermediate federation, of which all of the five clubs are a part, will hold its next rally in the "Y" January 13.

New Castle Hi Loses Game At Ford City 27-23

Veteran Ford City Team Gets Away To Lead In First Period, Doumont Stars

WILL PLAY AT SHARON TUESDAY

New Castle High School basketball team ran into a tough Ford City High quintet last night at the Ford City floor and came home on the short end, 27 to 23.

A poor start in the first period in which they scored but one point to six for the Forders was the margin of defeat for the locals. In the second period New Castle didn't fare much better scoring but two more points to six again for the Ford City boys to make the count 12 to 3 at the half.

New Castle High came back strong in the third period to outscore the opponents 9 to 7, and the third period ended with New Castle trying hard to close the gap. It was 19 to 12.

Rally Falls Short
Again in the fourth and final period the Red and Blacks tried hard to overtake the Forders, and managed to outscore the home lads again 11 to 8, but fell short by four points of tying up the old ball game.

It was Ford City that defeated New Castle last year at the stadium in a W. P. I. A. L. playoff game and then went ahead to win the W. P. I. A. L. championship. Three of the regulars from the last year's team—Doumont, McIlwain and Sotnyk—were in the game. New Castle played with a new team and looked impressive.

Sharon Is Next
Doumont carried off the starring in the game, with McIlwain also a place setter for the winners, and Clark, Bombyk and Greer the best for the Bribdenbaughmen.
New Castle's next game will be Tuesday night at Sharon.

Keystones Keep Winning Streak Intact Friday

Keystones And N. Y. A. Will Battle Sunday For League Lead

The Keystone A. C. kept its winning streak in the City basketball league intact Friday night by handing the Gus' Big Five a 24 to 20 defeat with the Keys being paced by Zingaro, and Bullano. At the half the Keys led 13 to 10 and held it throughout the final two periods.

Best for the losers was the work of Judd Kennedy and Reed.

Will Play Sunday

The Keystones and N. Y. A. teams will battle for first place Sunday in the league in a preliminary game at 2:15 o'clock at the Arena. Both are undefeated in league play to date.

Titans Defeat Geneva 41-33

Westminster Opens College Floor Season With Victory Friday Night

FRESHMEN PLAYERS REVEAL PROMISE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—In their first game of the 1938-39 season, the Westminster Titans disposed of a tough opponent, the Geneva Covenanters, by a 41-33 score. It was the first test of Coach Washabaugh's new man-for-man defense, which this year replaces the zone-defense of former Coach John Lawther.

For the Titans, Captain Mel Miller took high-point honors with 13 points, closely followed by Jim Wilson, McKeesport freshman, with 10. Skasko, with eight markers, was high for Geneva.

Westminster cut an early Geneva lead to end the first half 20-16, and increased its lead in the second half to 35-20 before sending in replacements. Geneva rode rough-shod over the Titans for two minutes and cut the lead to nine points, 36-29, when Coach Washabaugh turned his varsity five to the game to check the golden-surge, and the Titans came through to a 41-33 win.

Three freshmen were in Coach Washabaugh's starting five: Jim Wilson, Joseph Spak and Stan Wasik, and all three played well.

Geneva took an early lead on three foul shots, followed by Hartshorn's deep shot and Skasko's dribble under to score seven points while the Titans made four points on Miller's tip-in and Wilson's shot under the basket. The Titans then went on a scoring spree with Patton's free one and Miller's score after dribbling the entire length of the floor, followed by a free counter, to take the lead 8-7.

Spak then scored on a fake shift under the basket for the Titans, followed by Miller's close-in score. Miller stayed in the spotlight for Westminster by tossing a backward overhead basket, followed by a deep one from the side and the Titans led at the quarter 16-7.

Geneva came back strong as Skasko dribbled under twice for scores, and Karbowicz took two free ones, while Spak was gathering two points for the Titans. Spak again sank a counter, followed by Karbowicz on a dribble-in shot and Delon's free one, to bring the score to 20-16 at the half.

The Titans began increasing their lead in the third quarter with two baskets from Wilson and one from Joe Hertz, who replaced Patton. Kidder of Geneva dribbled in for a counter and Skasko added a free shot to end the third quarter 28-19.

At this point Coach Washabaugh began replacing his first-string men, and the Titan lead began to shrink as Dillie cut in twice from the deep side for baskets, Kidder and Delon dribbled under and Hartshorn made one of two. With the score 38-28 for Westminster, the Titan first-stringers returned to the game and virtually ended the Covenanters' scoring, as Wilson scored twice close in, and Spak took a free one, to end the game 41-33.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

That banquet honoring the 1938 Ellwood City High football team on Thursday night, January 19, in the Elks club, Ellwood City, will top any sport banquet held in Lawrence County in many years. Andy Blordi, the No. 1 Ellwood City fan is sponsoring the affair. The program will include just about everyone who means anything in the gridiron world. "Bill" Kern, the coach of the year, (picked by the scribes recently), "Bo" McMillin, of Indiana University, one of the best mentors in the land, Marshall Goldberg, a sweet player as ever over a Pitt U. muleskin Dandy Dick Cassiano, another flashy Panther, and "Cal" Hubbard, a former star collegiate, a professional grinder, and now a big league "ump" will be on the program.

Denny Schell, colorful Chamber of Commerce official, and a sports official on the side, draws the toast-mastering job which will be snap for him. Six vaudeville acts are also part of the program not to mention a delicious dinner. The Wolverines will all receive good footballs, gifts of Blordi. From here its looks like plenty of folks will be on the outside looking in. A packed house is a cinch. You'll have to show me a lay out that tops this coming affair.

Didja know?...After 16 years, England finally succeeded in coping the Walker cup, beating the American team 7 matches to 4, last June. In 1937, more money was spent for golf than for any other sport. The public went for the game to the tune of $13,760,337. "Zekki" Bonura, now of the Giants is regarded as one of the poorest fielding first sackers in the business. Hugh Mulcahy, of the Phillies, was the player most in demand during the big league trade shindig. Northwestern's basketball team is making the first eastern trip to a Wildcat cage squad has ever made, battling St. John's tonight, in Madison Square Garden, Texas Christian, Carnegie Tech's bowl foe employees the double and single wing.

Sports Slants...S'funny thing about Southern California. The second team has scored 15 of the 25 touchdowns piled up by the Trojans. Look for practically every major league team to adopt night baseball after the next season. Even the toughest aggregations in the big show are commencing to succumb to the lure of the after-dusk crowds, including the Yankees and Jints. Westminster college's Titans battle St. Joseph's of Philadelphia February 14. So far, St. Joe's boast an average of 63 1/2 points a game. Their latest victim, Western Maryland, was snowed under, 81-43.

Senior Class Presents Play

Large Crowd Attends Performance in Lincoln High School Last Night

AUDIENCE IS WELL PLEASED

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 17.—A large audience assembled last evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium to witness the Senior A class present "320 College Street" under the direction of Mrs. Beatrice Andrews. The presentation, a tragic-comic melodrama, pleased the audience. The play revolved about a group of college students whose fun is turned to tragedy as one of the fickle boys is murdered with a hat pin slipped from the hat of Judy Wayne, sorority belle. To complicate matters, most all of the characters have reasons for committing the crime but deny any part in the killing when questioned by the police. When the pianist tells of seeing a hand with a large ring on the fourth finger steal the hat pin, the burglar alarm suddenly begins to ring and in confusion the group is separated and reassembling find the unfortunate witness choked to death with his necktie.

As the crime finally points to one of the boys, who it develops had been a hit-run killer while in company of the first victim, and the police chief is about to take the murderer away, the supposedly murdered boys walk into the scene as does a surprise player, who announces the rehearsal for his production has been a fine success.

Harry Zeigler's impressive impersonation of a hard-boiled police chief was the outstanding performance, and the typical actions of his assistant played by Walter Boback added color. Character roles by Miss Anne Herges as the nervous, "high strung" dean and her co-chapter, Charles Music were very well portrayed. Ben Koller, the murderer and Miss Dorothy Magee, the "belle" played their parts effectively as did the entire supporting cast.

The complete cast follows:

Cast of Characters (In order of their appearance): Lucille Wayne—Dorothy Magee. Val—Harold Houk. Lucille Nounville—Eddie Cook. Ronny—Joe McCandless. Ernie—Anthony Passante. Willing Workers Have Dinner Event At Caughty Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 17.—Lovely in every detail was the annual Christmas party of the Willing Workers class of the Wurtemburg U. P. church held last evening at the home of Mrs. J. E. Caughty in Wurtemburg.

The opening feature was the serving of a sumptuous tureen dinner amidst decorations of bright and colorful hues. Thirty members and one guest, Mrs. James Newton, participated.

Mrs. Ralph Newton led the worship period and during the meeting plans were made to buy toys for a worthy family for Christmas.

Interesting games and contests were enjoyed with Mrs. Elmer Munn and Miss Cora Cunningham winning the awards. Secret sister gifts were presented.

During the evening handkerchief showers were held in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Ruth Badger and Miss Sarah Tindall.

For the next meeting on Tuesday evening, January 17, Mrs. Lester Pander will be hostess at her home in Wurtemburg, and Mrs. Clifford Gibbons will be her aide.

Sportsmen Will Submit Amendments To State Federation

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 17.—When members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Council gathered last evening in the New Wilmington Firemen's hall, they prepared a number of proposed amendments to the game code to be acted upon by the State Federation meeting to be held next month in Harrisburg.

Among the number of changes proposed are: A bounty to be placed on the red fox; a change made that groundhogs could be hunted until sundown in the summer time instead of the present 5 o'clock deadline; and that fishermen be permitted to have 50 of any one kind or 50 assorted fish bait in possession at one time.

The council also objected to the insufficient number of game protectors in the woods during the deer hunting season. The council wants the game protectors kept in the woods to prevent illegal killing instead of so many checkers on the highways.

An objection will also be offered concerning the distribution of game in Lawrence county by the council, which believes that the full quota was not received.

These proposed objections and amendments will be presented to the North Western Division meeting at Franklin tonight in preparation for submission to the Federation, President, Harold S. Parker, of Ellwood City, conducted the meeting.

The next meeting will be held on the third Friday of January in West Pittsburg.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The stock market eased a shade further today. Declines were negligible with trading dull, and a few leaders eked out small gains.

Loew's continued to feature, dropping more than 2 points at one time on top of yesterday's break of 4%. Selling apparently reflects Wall Street's nervousness over stockholders' suits against the Loew's management for an accounting.

Aside from the fluctuations in Loew's, individual movements were of little significance. First-hour sales amounted to 220,000, indicating total turnover for the two hour session of less than a half-million shares.

Fractional declines were shown by Anaconda, American Smelting, Chrysler, General Motors, American Can and General Electric, among others. Johns-Manville and Santa Fe were down a point before meeting support.

Consolidated Edison, North American and Standard Oil of N. J. were slightly above previous closing levels.

Barbara's Next?

London drawing room rumor has it that Robert Sweeney (above), native San Franciscan, now a resident of London, will be the next husband of Countess Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, five-and-ten heiress. If she wed Sweeney, after being freed from her Danish count, Barbara would regain her American citizenship, which she is said to long for. Sweeney was British amateur golf champion in 1937.

Heirs Pull Fortunes Out of a Hat

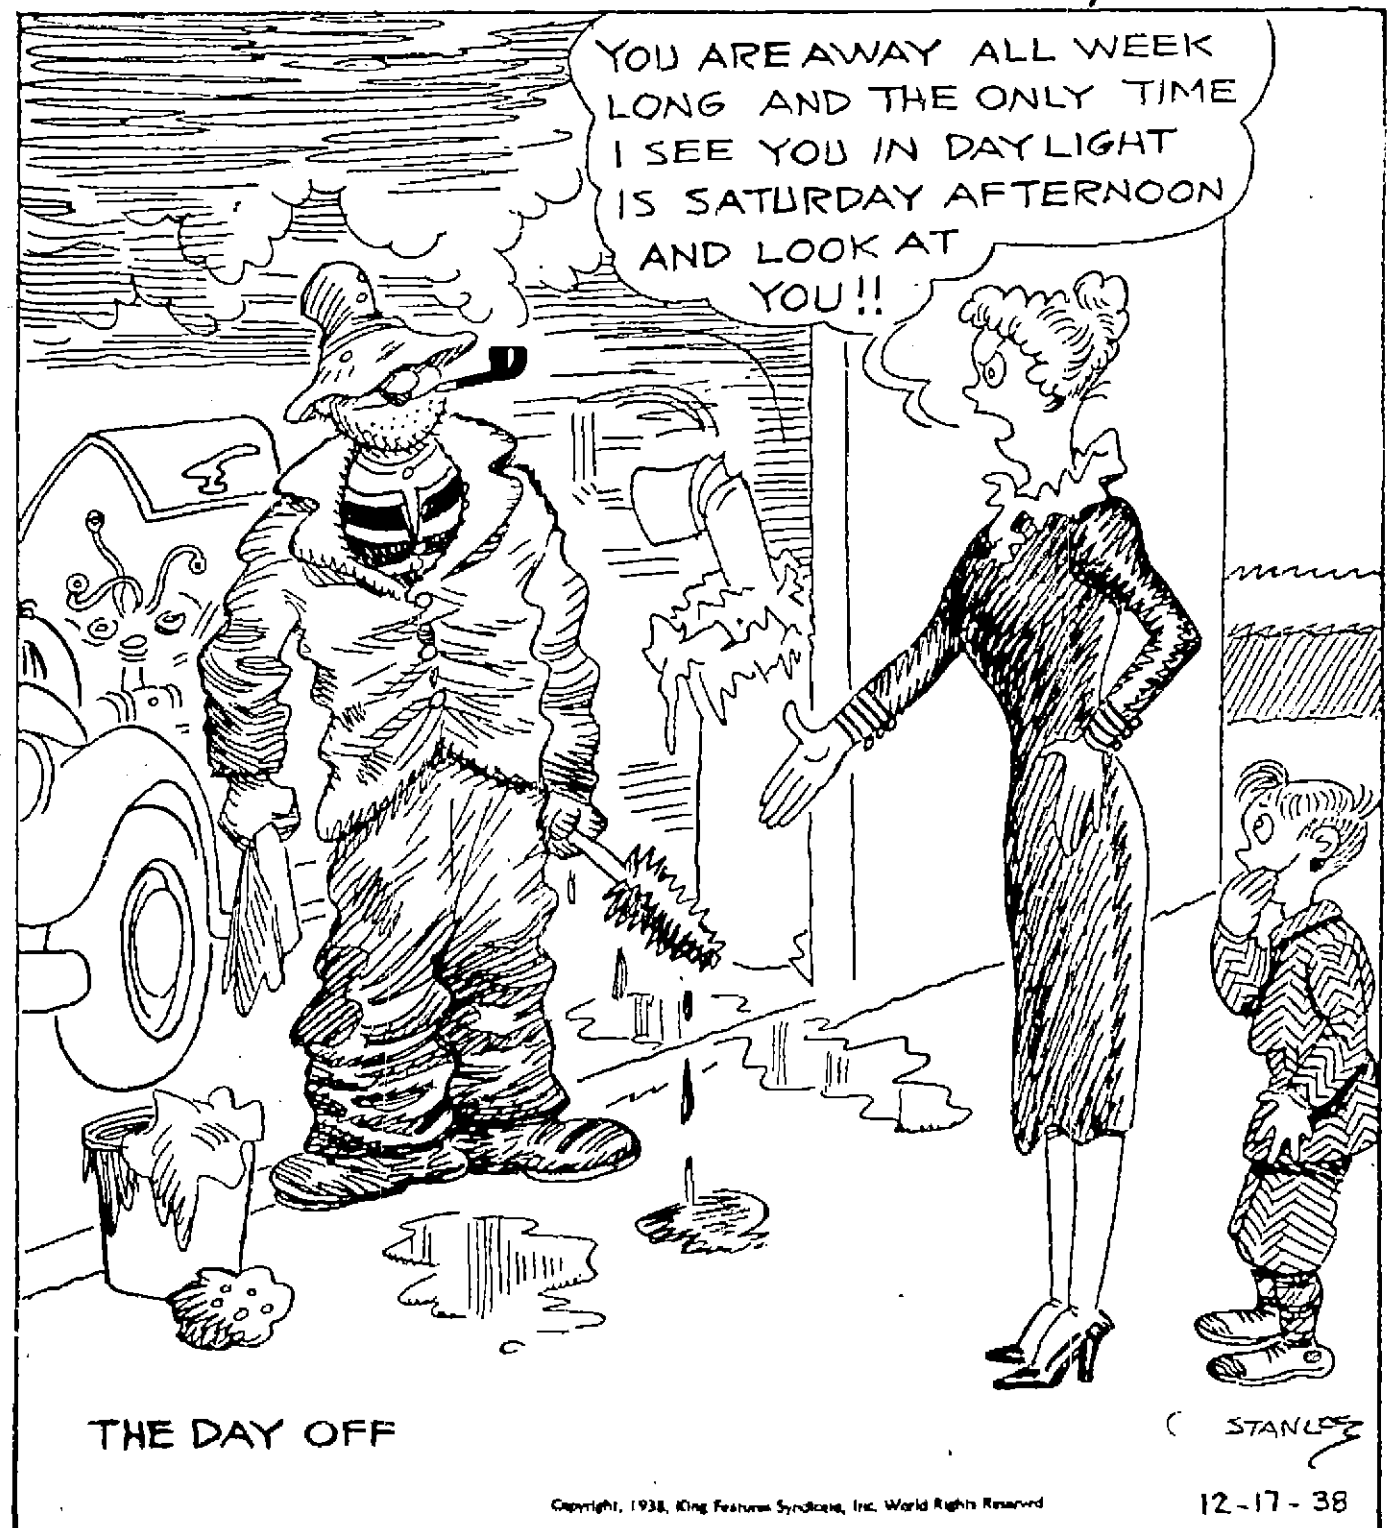

The ancient whaling town of New Bedford, Mass., witnessed one of the strangest drawings on record when Banker Benjamin A. Tripp held the hat for heirs to draw their respective shares in the $137,500 fortune left by David Levasseur. First the fortune was split into five lots and a drawing was made by the two nearest relatives. The remaining three lots were split into twenty-three shares for the rest of the heirs to draw lots.

Junior Christian Endeavor meet-

Mustangs Have Victory Dance

Annual Party For Seventh Ward Athletic Association Well Attended

Amid attractive decorations, fashioned with the team's colors of blue and gold, 50 members of the Mahoning Mustangs Athletic Association, and their guests, staged the annual victory dance, in the hall of St. Margaret's church, Friday evening.

Dancing and games of cards and checkers were the main diversions during the hours. Each year, at the close of the football season the Mustangs have this victory dance in honor of their team members.

Special guests included: Coach Frank Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Combs, and State Patrolman LeRoy Turk.

Walter Jolley, president of the Mustangs, in an appropriate speech, presented Coach Humphrey with a handsomely engraved wallet and key case.

A delicious luncheon was served by the committee in charge that included: Jack Cheek, chairman, Walter Jolley, Ed Calvert, Louis Turk, Kenneth Evans, William Cushion and Maurice Aquara.

Junior Christian Endeavor society will meet at 6:45 o'clock, and the Senior Endeavor society will gather at 7 o'clock.

Evening worship period will begin at 7:45 o'clock with Rev. Shearer preaching on the subject, "Kings To Contrast."

Start To Sell Show Tickets Today In Ward

A canvass of the homes in the Seventh Ward district was started today in an effort to raise funds to pay for the Christmas lights erected on Liberty street.

This canvass is being conducted by the Seventh Ward Civic Club, sponsor of the lighting project.

Residents of the ward will be asked to purchase a ticket for the benefit show to be given on Thursday and Friday, December 23 and 24. In addition to this ticket sale the young ladies making the canvass will ask for a small donation of some sort.

Cantata At Ward Church On Sunday

In place of the regular evening service, Sunday night at the Mahoning Methodist church, the annual Christmas Cantata will be presented by members of the church choir.

The program is scheduled to begin at 7:45 o'clock.

"Star In The East", is the title of the cantata, and a large cast will take part. Miss Jane Kyle has served the group as leader and director throughout all of the practices, and she will be in charge, Sunday night.

METHODIST CHURCH

Services at the Mahoning Methodist church Sunday begin with Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock with Q. E. Davy, the superintendent, in charge.

At 11 o'clock Rev. D. J. Blase will conduct the morning worship program and preach a sermon on the topic, "Some Gifts Jesus Gave."

Epworth League meeting will be held at 6:45 o'clock in the church.

Special Christmas cantata will be presented at 7:45 o'clock by the church choir.

PLAN INSTALLATION

Mabel Wilson Auxiliary will have installation of officers, followed by a lunch, at the meeting in Eagles Hall next Wednesday evening.

Last Wednesday the lodge had a dinner, with Mrs. William Hofer, Mrs. Norman Grimm and Mrs. Harold Simkins in charge.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

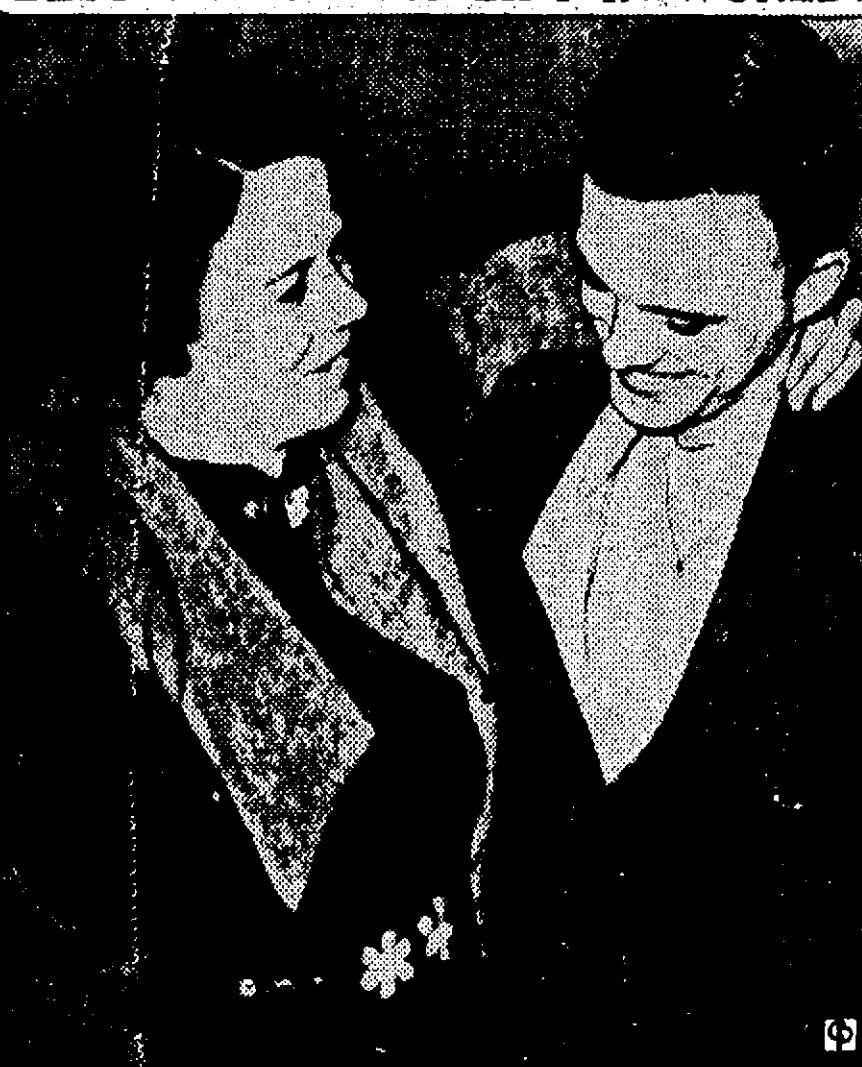

Mrs. Ben Harlan, Cherry street, is confined to her home by illness.

Daniel Schnebly, Newell avenue, is spending a vacation period from Mercersburg College, at his home here.

Eddie Charlebois, of Youngstown, O., has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McCombs, West Clayton street, his grandparents and great-grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnston, of West Clayton street, and grandchildren, Ronald and Barbara Simkins of Sharon, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh. Today the children returned home.

BEST CHRISTMAS GIFT IN WORLD!

Mrs. Edward J. Wells and son George

If this mother and son appear extremely happy, there's an excellent reason for it. The mother is Mrs. Edward J. Wells. The son is George Wells, 22-year-old convicted slayer, whose life was saved by Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio 10 hours before the Akron, O. boy was to have gone to his death in the electric chair for the slaying of a restaurant man. The mother said: "It's the best Christmas gift I could ever get." The youth's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Man Identified By Tattooed Pig On Toe Of Foot

(International News Service)

DENVER, Colo.—A tattooed pig that "squealed" brought James H. Caldwell, 55, face to face with charges of assault to murder.

Caldwell's wife Margaret, blamed her husband for shooting her. Detectives, however, couldn't find the accused man.

Several days later, Mrs. Caldwell complained to police of the theft of a Navajo blanket from a suitcase.

Detectives M. D. Conroy and Dave Sastis recalled arresting a man for theft of a vacuum cleaner. He gave his name as Robert E. Smith and was sentenced to thirty days in jail for petty theft. In possession had been found a Navajo blanket.

"Maybe my husband took it," Mrs. Caldwell said, referring to her blanket and suitcase. "If you catch him, you'll be able to identify him by the pig tattooed on the little toe of his right foot."

The prisoner "Smith" was examined. On the little toe of his right foot was the pig.

Dear Quotarians:

Monday evening will be our regular meeting but it is a very special one. Dinner will be served promptly at 6 o'clock and it would be greatly appreciated if everyone would make a special effort to be on time.

The committee has also planned a nice Christmas party following the dinner at the home of your secretary. We hope everyone will come prepared to spend the evening.

May we have your reservations at the earliest possible time.

LILA V. HENSHAW, Secretary.

New Castle Exchange club members will gather in The Castleton, Monday evening at 5:45 o'clock, for their weekly dinner meeting.
